- I want to understand how to make prioritization the best it possibly can be for the project. At the moment there are many ideas for the project but we in the group have some difficulties with finding one path. To understand it better I will contact the teachers or supervisors and if needed also discuss it with the group and we can then help each other.

- To help the other in the group I can use my experience in the areas where the others are not so experienced. For instance, if the group is unsure of how to visually structure of project I can give them a helping hand because I have worked a lot with designing applications in previous courses so I believe that I can help them in that way. My plan is to explain to the group what my ideas are and then also open up a discussion to make sure everyone are on the same page.

- We have not started with it yet but when we do I will volunteer to be a Scrum master for one week. I will also be joining the sprint retrospectives and standups if needed. That's how I will contribute.

- This week I helped with discussing different ideas for a project and I discussed with the group what we need to write in the Social Contract. I created the folders and some structure in Overleaf, this is where we will create our reflections and other written reports. In addition, I volunteered to talk with the teachers on Zoom and present our project to them and received feedback and also ask them a couple of questions.
